

e-lesson

Week starting: March 29, 2010

1. Strange but true

This week's lesson is based on descriptions of four cases of unusual animal behavior, three of which are true and one of which has been invented.

Level

Pre-intermediate and above (equivalent to CEF level A2–B1 and above)

How to use the lesson

1. If any of your students have pets at home, ask them if their pet has ever behaved in a surprising or impressive way. If so, ask them to describe what happened to the rest of the class. Are your students aware of any other instances of surprising animal behavior?

2. Divide your students into pairs, then hand out Worksheet A and give them five to ten minutes to read through it. Encourage them to look up new vocabulary. Can they identify which three cases of unusual behavior are true and which one has been made up?

3. Check answers in open class, and encourage your students to explain what factors influenced their choices.

Answers: The true cases are 2, 3, and 4; the story of the baseball-loving cat (1) has been invented.

4. Keeping your students in their pairs, hand out Worksheet B and ask them to complete the crossword.

5. Check answers in open class.

6. Ask the students to put away Worksheets A and B or to temporarily hand them back to you. Then, keeping the students in pairs, hand out Worksheet C, which contains most of the text from Worksheet A, and give them another ten minutes for the blank-fill exercise, in which they have to complete the missing words. If the students cannot remember what the words are, encourage them to try to figure them out from the context of the sentence. You might also want to point out that some of the words feature in the glossary (or, to make it more difficult, you could ask the students not to use their glossaries).

7. Check answers in open class.

Answers:

Exercise 1

1. with 2. litter 3. friendship 4. rescued 5. yellow 6. female 7. confused
8. mother 9. behave 10. turn

If the sentences have been completed correctly, wise old man will read from top to bottom.
