

A royal engagement – Glossary

air force noun [countable] the part of a country's military organization that uses airplanes in fighting announcement noun [uncountable] the act of publicly or officially stating something The announcement of his visit caused widespread media interest.

couple noun [countable] two people who are married or involved in a romantic relationship with each other The couple first met in 1985.

eldest adjective [usually before noun] oldest of the people in a group, especially the children in a family My eldest daughter is a doctor.

engagement noun [countable]
a formal agreement to get married favorite noun [countable]

the person or team that is expected to win a race or competition
The Yankees are favorite to win the series.

first in line phrase
before any others in a row of people or things

in fact phrase
used when you are adding something to what you have just said, especially something surprising I haven't seen him for years. In fact, I can't even remember what he looks like.

informal adjective
used about language or behavior that is suitable for using with friends but not in formal situations Beware of being too friendly and informal with your employees.

jewel noun [countable]
a hard, colored, and usually valuable stone that has been cut and made shiny precious jewels

on sale phrase
available for people to buy Tickets for the performance are on sale at the box office.

main adjective [only before noun]
most important, largest, or most frequently used
The main entrance to the building is on George Street.

monarch noun [countable]
a king or queen

royal adjective [usually before noun] relating to a king or queen or the members of their family royal family noun [countable] a family consisting of a king or a queen, and their relatives short adjective

using fewer words or letters than the full form of something My name is Elizabeth, or Liz for short.

so far phrase
until now
So far we have restricted our attention to the local area.

souvenir noun [countable]
something that you buy on vacation or at a special event to remind you later of being there She kept the tickets as a souvenir of the evening.

start verb [transitive]
to bring a business, organization, or project into existence
He decided to quit his job and start his own business.