

1. International Women's Day

This week's lesson touches on some of the issues surrounding International Women's Day, which is celebrated every year on March 8th in many countries around the world.

Level

Upper intermediate and above (equivalent to CEF level B2 and above)

How to use the lesson

1. Presuming issues of discrimination are not too sensitive to be raised in your class, introduce the concept of discrimination and ask the students what forms of discrimination exist in the world. What examples of gender/sex discrimination can they think of? Would they say that gender discrimination is decreasing (in the world as a whole, and/or in their country)? How is the situation today different from one hundred years ago?
2. Give your students between five and ten minutes to read through Worksheet A, encouraging them to look up new vocabulary. Note, however, that many of the words that might be new are not in the glossary because they form part of Exercise 1.
3. Give each student a copy of Worksheet B, then divide the class into pairs and ask students to work together to do Exercise 1, in which they have to find the words to match the definitions. You may wish to point out that some of the words may be in a different form in the text (a different verb tense, for example).
4. Check answers in open class.
5. Ask the students to turn over their copies of Worksheet A or to give them back to you temporarily. Then, keeping the students in their pairs, hand out Worksheet C and ask them to move on to Exercise 2, in which one word has been omitted from each line of the text. With no indication of what the words were, or any blanks to show exactly where they have been taken from, how many of the words can the students remember and replace? This is not a test of memory alone, however: the students should be able to draw on their grammatical and lexical knowledge, and you should also point out that both the glossary and the students' correct answers to Exercise 1, on Worksheet B, should be of some use. Award a point for each word that is correctly replaced. (You could perhaps award half a point if the students come up with a word that fits the sentence but is not actually the original word.)
6. Check answers in open class.
