

1. Haunted house

This week's lesson is about Borley Rectory, a supposedly haunted British residence that burned down in 1939. Ghost hunter Harry Price wrote two books about Borley Rectory, The Most Haunted House in England (1940) and The End of Borley Rectory (1946).

Level

Intermediate and above (equivalent to CEF level B1 and above)

How to use the lesson

1. Start the lesson by asking your students whether they believe in ghosts. Ask if anyone knows any ghost stories that they would like to share with the class.
2. Divide the class into Group A and Group B. Give one copy of Worksheet A to each student in Group A and one copy of Worksheet B to each student in Group B.
3. Tell your students they are going to read a ghost story. They have the same text, but there is some information missing from each worksheet. Explain that they are going to ask a member of the other group some questions to help them complete the text, but first they need to prepare the questions.
4. Ask the students to work together in their group to prepare and write down the questions they need to ask to complete the text. (If your students need help with this, see the list of suggested questions on the following page.)
5. When all the students have prepared their questions, ask them to work in pairs with a student from the other group. They should take turns asking and answering the questions they have prepared and write the answer in the space in their text.
6. When both students have finished asking and answering, allow them to compare worksheets.
7. Check answers in open class.
